Aspen Publishers, Inc., 2002. Book Condition: New. Brand New, Unread Copy in Perfect Condition. A+ Customer Service! Summary: Among first casebooks devoted solely to the study of negotiation, this book is an ideal text for a two, three, or four-unit negotiation course or clinic, or for an ADR course with a substantial negotiation component. This concise, interdisciplinary work draws on the social sciences as well as the cutting-edge legal scholarship and traditional legal sources to create an analytical framework for understanding and applying negotiation strategy. After a stage-setting introduction, the book progresses through units on: - The Structure of Negotiation- The Negotiator- Additional Parties- The Law of Negotiation. Instructors who examine Negotiation Theory and Strategy will find that the book offers: - an interdisciplinary approach to the study of negotiation theory drawing on laws, psychology, economics, and sociology- a combination of excerpted readings, narrative text, note material developing points made in the readings, and discussion questions and problems accompanying each chapter- excerpts from leading negotiation scholars including Fisher & Ury, Lax & Sebenius, Schelling, Mnookin, Menkel-Meadow, Riskin, Shell, Craver, and Gilson- comprehensive coverage of the law of negotiation including misrepresentation and rules governing litigation settlement- a clear, approachable writing style that makes generous use of examples and hypotheticals- a thorough Teacher's Manual, with negotiation simulations and other exercises recommended to accompany each chapter of the book.
